The origin

Andhra Pradesh is one of India's leading mango states. Its best-known mango, Banganapalle, received a Geographical Indication tag in 2017, with the Government of Andhra Pradesh as the registered proprietor. Only mangoes from the registered area can be sold under that name.

Banganapalle is the state's main early-season commercial mango: firm, fibreless, golden-yellow flesh with a clean sweetness. It holds its quality in cold storage for up to three months, which makes it well suited to export. Suvarnarekha, from the north coast, also carries a GI tag.

Varieties and forms

Banganapalle (Benishan)	GI-tagged. Large, firm, fibreless and sweet. The main export table mango.
Suvarnarekha	GI-tagged. Early, with an attractive red blush.
Totapuri	Long, beaked fruit for processing into pulp and juice concentrate.
Neelum	Late-season mango that extends the shipping window.
Rasalu	Juicy 'sucking' mangoes loved at home; limited shelf life.
Mango pulp	Totapuri and Alphonso-style pulp, aseptic or canned, from licensed processors.

Fresh mangoes April to June; pulp all year.

Market trend

Fresh mango exports go mainly to the Gulf, the UK, Europe, the US and East Asia. Several importing countries require treatment protocols such as vapour heat treatment or irradiation, carried out at APEDA-registered facilities.

Mango pulp ships all year and is a steady business for juice, dairy and bakery buyers.

How an order works

Requirement → producer shortlist with approvals → samples and lab tests → contract and proforma invoice → production and pre-shipment inspection → bill of lading, certificate of origin and health or phytosanitary certificates. Specifications, prices and lead times are confirmed in writing for each order.
